Dear Mr. Fitzwater:

The Center for the Study of Intelligence established the Interdirectorate Seminar two-and-a-half years ago -- partly in response to an Inspector General's audit that had found the need for an informal mechanism, i.e., one outside the MAG channel, for the exchange of opinion among responsible officers from all four directorates.

Thanks to your participation and that of other speakers, the Seminar has proven one of the most successful ventures undertaken by the CSI.

As the holidays draw near, we thank you for your participation and extend the season's greetings.

Deputy Director
Center for the Study of Intelligence
